DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of Species L (Figures 12D-12F) in the reply filed on February 7, 2006 is acknowledged. However, in light of the cancellation of claims 20-110, the Election of Species requirement is withdrawn. It is the Examiner's position that most, if not all, of the embodiments are readable on claim 1.

Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: There is no antecedent basis for "the stenosis". Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Imran (5,833,650). See especially Figures 6A-6E and the respective portions of the specification. Imran discloses a method of treatment of a blood vessel comprising advancing an evacuation sheath assembly (11) into the blood vessel, stopping normal antegrade blood flow in the blood vessel proximate the stenosis (76) (Figure 6B), advancing a therapeutic catheter (51) into the blood vessel, treating the stenosis with the therapeutic catheter, advancing an infusion catheter (31) to a location distal to the stenosis, infusing the blood vessel with a fluid supplied by the infusion catheter, and inducing retrograde flow within the blood vessel to carry embolic material dislodged during treating into the evacuation sheath assembly.

In regards to claims 2-4, Imran discloses a method that includes all of the limitations as recited in claim 1 wherein advancing the infusion catheter includes advancing the infusion catheter through a distal end of the evacuation sheath assembly, wherein stopping blood flow includes creating a first seal (19) between the evacuation sheath and the blood vessel and creating a second seal between a guide catheter (63) and a proximal portion of the evacuation sheath assembly.

In regards to claims 5-9, Imran discloses a method that includes all of the limitations as recited in claim 1 wherein the retrograde flow includes applying a vacuum through the evacuation sheath, treating the stenosis includes advancing an angioplasty balloon (58), wherein treating the stenosis includes advancing a stent (126) to the stenosis, and wherein inducing retrograde flow involves venting pressure as is well-known in the art.

In regards to claims 10-17, Imran discloses a method that includes all of the limitations as recited in claim 1 wherein the blood vessel can be a coronary artery or saphenous vein graft, wherein the step of stopping normal antegrade blood flow is performed prior to advancing the device a stenosis, wherein infusing the blood vessel is done through infusion port (38), and wherein saline, blood, or radiopaque dye can be infuse into the blood vessel.

In regards to claim 18-19, Imran discloses a method that includes all of the limitations as recited in claim 1 wherein the evacuation sheath is advanced through guide catheter (63) and further applying a vacuum to the guide catheter and further comprising inducing retrograde flow prior to advancing the infusion catheter to move debris proximal to the treated stenosis.
